

Pam Perrino

Pam Perrino has a diverse background in early childhood education and advocacy. She has worked as an infant/toddler teacher, preschool teacher, center director and adjunct college instructor. Her passion lies in supporting young children's development and well-being.

Pam delivers trainings across the country providing valuable insights on understanding why young children behave the way they do and how to respond effectively. Her lively presentations offer practical strategies for dealing with little learners' big emotions. Whether it's addressing social-emotional competence or using positive behavior supports, her guidance helps educators navigate the complex world of early childhood emotions.

Pam has actively contributed to educational initiatives in Ohio. She served on state-level writing teams for the Early Learning and Development Standards and the Administrator Core Knowledge and Competencies. Additionally, she has been involved in Ohio's Professional Development Committee and has held leadership roles, including being an Ohio AEYC board member and Power to the Profession Consultant. Pam's dedication to early childhood education and her advocacy work continue to make a positive impact in the field.
